Overview:

The State Treasurer is a constitutional officer who is an elected Executive Branch officer. The Arizona State Treasurer's Office protects taxpayer money by serving as the State's Bank and fiduciary agent, providing investment management, financial information and services. As Arizona's Chief Banker and Investment Officer, Treasurer Ducey oversees more than $10.2 billion in state assets and also serves as the Chairman of Arizona's State Board of Investment and State Loan Commission. He also serves as the State's Surveyor General and is a member of the State Land Selection Board.

Requirements:

The Arizona State Constitution requires all statewide elected Executive officeholders be at least 25 years of age and a registered voter in Arizona. The State Constitution also requires the Treasurer be a U.S. citizen for 10 years preceding the election, and an Arizona resident for five years preceding the election.

Term Limits:

The Arizona State Constitution limits the State Treasurer to two consecutive four year terms. The Treasurer is allowed to serve more than two terms as long as there is at least four years between the first two terms and any subsequent terms. Two individuals, Mit Simms and J.W. Kelly, were elected to a record four terms.
